

My house cleaning service may have used an acid-based bathroom cleaner on my marble vanity top and caused damage. Can this be fixed?

Q. My house cleaning service may have used an acid-based bathroom cleaner on my marble vanity top and caused damage. Can this be fixed?

A. If the damaged area is small and not too severe, you can try to fix it yourself with a quality marble polishing powder or compound. However, if too much damage occurred, the best remedy would be to use the services of a reputable stone restoration contractor to repair the damage made by your employees. If you don't have a PRO, contact us.

Then, download and print our free Stone and Tile Care Guide for your household cleaning staff to read.

Online URL:

<https://surfacecarepros.com/kb/article/my-house-cleaning-service-may-have-used-an-acid-based-bathroom-cleaner-on-my-marble-vanity-top-and-caused-damage-can-this-be-fixed-1249.html>