

How do you remove rust stains from a terrazzo floor?

Q. How do you remove rust stains from a terrazzo floor?

A. Rust stains on terrazzo can be tricky to remove properly. While there are products like Iron-Out that can be used in a poultice to draw out the stain, if not done correctly, may cause further damage to your floor.

In some cases, the terrazzo may need to be lightly honed to open up the surface and allow the rust remover to penetrate—but this requires specialized tools and experience to avoid making the problem worse.

For best results, we strongly recommend contacting a stone restoration professional to handle this for you. They have the right knowledge and equipment to safely remove rust stains and restore the finish without compromising the integrity of your terrazzo.
