

Our terrazzo floor has had many coats of wax applied to it over the years. The wax build-up on the terrazzo baseboards is very thick and difficult to remove. Do you have any suggestions?

Wax build-up on a vertical surface can be difficult to remove, since most strippers will run. Janitorial supply stores do offer spray-on baseboard wax removers that work very well; since they are applied as a foam, they will cling to vertical surfaces, allowing for easy removal. If you cannot find any of these formulas, a spray-on oven cleaner would be a good substitute.

Whichever chemical you use make sure to rinse thoroughly with clean water. Many of these chemicals can damage the terrazzo if they dry on the surface.

Online URL:

<https://surfacecarepros.com/kb/article/our-terrazzo-floor-has-had-many-coats-of-wax-applied-to-it-over-the-years-the-wax-build-up-on-the-terrazzo-baseboards-is-very-thick-and-difficult-to-remove-do-you-have-any-suggestions-960.html>